

is the distance and maintenance of a relatively constant environment within the body.

Karl